He was ancestor of all the Somervilles in Great Britain. Sir Gaultier, his eldest son, succeeded him in his English estates; and William, his second son, contracted a friendship with king David I. of Scotland, when that prince was in England, and accompanied him into Scotland, where he appears to have been a frequent witness to the royal grants to religious houses. From him descended the Somervilles of Scotland. He died in 1162, and William de Somerville, his eldest son, distinguished himself by killing a monstrous serpent which had ravaged the county of Roxburgh, and obtained from king William the Lion, the barony of Lintoun. He died on Feb. 4, 1761, leaving issue by his wife, Juliana, countess of Anglesey, only one son, Arthur, viscount Valentia, the present earl, and three daughters; 1. Richarda, married, in July, 1761, Robert Phaire, of Temple Shannon, and died in 1807—2. Juliana, married sir Frederick Flood, baronet of Newtown Ormond, in Kilkenny, and died without issue—and, 3. Catharine, married John Toole, esq. and died without issue in May, 1803.

In 1762, after the death of earl Richard, Mr. John Annesley, of Ballisack, presented a petition to the then lord lieutenant of Ireland, claiming the titles of viscount Valentia and baron Mountnorris, as next in succession to those honours, in case Richard, the late earl of Anglesey, had died without issue male lawfully begotten.

The said Arthur, the only son of the aforesaid Richard, earl of Anglesey, and viscount Valentia, presented a counter-petition by his mother and guardian, Juliana, countess of Anglesey. The matter was referred to the attorney and solicitor-general of Ireland, who, after the fullest investigation investigation (which lasted near four years), reported, on Sept. 21, 1765, that the marriage of Richard, earl of Anglesey, with Juliana Donovan, in 1741, was proved; and that the honours of Valentia, Mountnorris, and Altham, were vested in the said Arthur, the only son of the aforesaid Richard, earl of Anglesey and viscount Valentia.

In 1765, the said Arthur having attained his age of twenty-one years, was called to parliament in Ireland by a writ of summons, and took his seat in the House of Peers as viscount Valentia, baron Mountnorris, and baron Altham. In the same year, 1765, lord Valentia, towards the end of the session of parliament, petitioned his Majesty for his writ of summons to the parliament of Great Britain, as earl of Anglesey and baron Annesley, of Newport Pagnel. This petition was referred to the then attorney-general of England, sir William de Grey, who reported in favour of issuing the writ. Sir William was afterwards directed to re-consider his report, and to give his opinion upon such new evidence as should be laid before him. After considering the evidence, sir William de Grey made a second report, recapitulating the evidence, and deciding in lord Valentia's favour. He reported, that Arthur, lord Valentia, was the legitimate son of the late earl of Anglesey, and as such entitled to the honours of the earl of Anglesey and baron Annesley, of Newport Pagnel. Notwithstanding these reports, his Majesty was pleased to refer the case to the House of Lords of Great Britain. The question in this case was, whether lord Valentia was the legitimate son of the earl of Anglesey? which rested upon the marriage of his father on Sept. 15, 1741, and of the authenticity of the certificate written at the time by the said Laurence Neil, and of the attestation of the witnesses thereto. The testimony of one of the witnesses, Elizabeth Elton, otherwise Smalley, produced against lord Valentia, raised a suspicion of forgery relative to the subscription of Charles Kavannagh, one of the witnesses to the certificate. The impressions made by the imputed forgery, and the inference drawn from the comparison of hands, outweighed the opposite testimony, and the claim was therefore disallowed.

The same question afterwards came on to be heard before the committee of the House of Lords in Ireland, and after the examination of witnesses during twenty-one days, it was determined, on the second of June, in the same year, that the late lord viscount Valentia in Ireland, the earl of Anglesey in England, was married, on Sept. 15, 1741, to the said Juliana Donovan, the then countess dowager of Anglesey, the mother of the sitting lord; and in consequence of this decision, the earl has ever since been summoned to parliament in Ireland, and has enjoyed all the estates in Great Britain and Ireland, of which his said father, Richard, late earl of Anglesey, died seised; and was, in the year 1793, created an earl of the kingdom of Ireland, by the title of earl Mountnorris, of Mountnorris Castle, as above stated; and is also a privy counsellor of the kingdom of Ireland, senior governor of the county of Wexford, and premier baronet of that kingdom.

Sir Anthony St. Leger, of Ulcomb, served under three successive princes, as lord lieutenant of Ireland, and was created by Henry VIII. a knight of the garter for his eminent services during his government in Ireland, where his descendants settled. titles became extinct. The estates descended to the issue of the viscount's sister, the hon.  of the Committee of Privy Council for the Affairs of Trade and Plantations; one of the Commissioners for the Affairs of India; and formerly one of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury. He was appointed governor of the Cape of Good Hope, in the year 1800; but soon afterwards relinquished that situation; and, on Feb. 20, 1801, was nominated joint paymaster-general of the forces; in 1803 he was appointed to the office of surveyor-general of the king's woods, forests, and chaces, which office he resigned in 1806, and was again appointed to the same office in 1807. He married, Sept. 25, 1789, Catharine-Ann, eldest daughter of Frederick, second earl of Guilford, and has issue Frederick-Sylvester-North, born Feb. 8, 1791.

Lord Glenbervie is the son of John Douglas, esq. of Fechil, in the parish of Ellon, in the county of Aberdeen.

The said John Douglas was tenth in lineal male descent from William Douglas, the first earl of Douglas, which William was paternal nephew and successor, as heir male, to James, the eighth lord Douglas (called, by historians, the good sir James), who flourished in the time of Robert Bruce, king of Scotland, and Edward I. king of England. The said William was seventh in male descent from William de Douglas, the first lord Douglas, who was descended from Sholto Douglas, said to have flourished in the year 700.

John Douglas was the great-great grandson, and became (in consequence of the death of his elder brother, George, and of Robert and James, the only sons of George, who both died unmarried) lineal heir male of the body of the rev. James Douglas of Glenbervie; which James was brother to William, the ninth earl of Angus, the said ninth earl being the sixth in lineal male descent from the above-named William, the first earl of Douglas, and great-grandson to Archibald, the fifth earl of Angus (styled the great earl), whose second son was Gawin Douglas, bishop of Dunkeld, author of the celebrated translation of Virgil.

The said Archibald was the common ancestor of the lady Margaret Douglas (maternal sister of James V. of Scotland, niece of Henry VIII. grand-daughter of Henry VII. and grandmother of James I. of England, and VI. of Scotland, being the mother of lord Darnley; and of the present Archibald, lord Douglas; of the duke of Hamilton; of the earl of Selkirk; of sir William Hamilton, K. B.; of sir Alexander Douglas, bart. (styled of Glenbervie); and of lord Glenbervie. John Douglas, his lordship's father, married Catharine, the second of the three daughters, and co-heiress of James Gordon, of Fenchil, great-grandson to the celebrated geographer, Robert Gordon, of Straloch, author of the Geography of Scotland, inserted in Bleau's Atlas. The said Catharine Gordon was born in 1716, and died in 1737; she was second cousin to the last earl Marischal, George Keith, they being grandchildren of George Hay, second earl of Kinnoul, by his two daughters, the ladies Mary and Catharine. Her husband, the said John Douglas, survived her, and married a second wife, Margaret Forbes, but had no issue by her. He was born in 1714, and died in 1762.

He left no issue but lord Glenbervie, born May 24, 1743, and Catharine, who married James Mercer, esq. of Sunny Bank, Aberdeenshire, and died Jan. 3, 1802.

Heir Apparent. Frederick-Sylvester-North Douglas, only son of his lordship.

JOHN THELLUSSON, BARON RENDLESHAM, of Rendlesham. Born Sept. 12, 1785. Succeeded his father, the late peer, Sept. 15, 1808. His lordship is a captain in the 27th regiment of foot.

This family is originally French, and in ancient times ranked high in the nobility of that nation.

In the list of nobles that accompanied Philip the Sixth, king of France, into Flanders in 1328, is Frederick De Theilusson, Seigneur De Fléchères; he is also described as baron St. Saphorin, from an estate he possessed adjoining to Fléchères, in the neighbourhood of Lyons. This Frederick held a high command in the army, and distinguished himself at the siege of Cassel. His descendants continued in the possession of these estates till Sunday, Aug. 22, 1572, when they fell victims at the massacre of St. Bartholomew. The only survivor of that dreadful slaughter was Theophilus De Thellusson, who having married a sister of count de Saluce, then governor of Lyons, was concealed by him, and secretly conveyed into Savoy, from whence seeing no probability of having his estates restored, or an end to the persecutions of the protestants, he retired to Geneva, where this family has since filled the first offices in the magistracy of that republic.

In 1720, Isaac De Thelluson, the great grandfather of the present peer, was sent as envoy from Geneva to the court of Lewis XV. which station he held for sixteen years. He had four sons, viz 1. Isaac-Louis, afterwards first syndic of Geneva, died in 1790—2. George, a banker in Paris, in partnership with M. Necker, famous as prime minister of France; he died in 1776—3. Peter, born June 27, 1735—4 John-Francis, also one of the syndics of Geneva, died in 1800.

Peter Thelluson, the third son, his lordship's grandfather, ther, came to England in 1750, and died July 27, 1797, having married, Jan. 6, 1761, Anne, second daughter of Matthew Woodford, esq. of Southampton, sister to sir Ralph Woodford, bart. of Carlby, Lincolnshire, by whom he had issue, 1. Peter-Isaac, the late peer—2. George-Woodford, born March 2, 1764, member in the present parliament for Barnstaple, and a director of the East India Company, married to Mary-Anne, daughter of Philip Fonnereau, esq. and has issue—3. Charles, born Feb. 2, 1770, member in three successive parliaments for the borough of Evesham, married to Sabina, daughter of Abraham Roberts, esq. representative for Worcester, a banker in London, late a director of the East India Company, and has issue—4. Maria, born Feb. 27, 1771; married, Aug. 14, 1792, the hon. Augustus Phipps, fifth son of Constantine, late lord Mulgrave—5. Anne, born in 1774; married, in 1801, to William Lukin, esq. a captain in the royal navy—6. Augusta-Charlotte, born Oct. 2, 1776; married to Thomas Crespigny, esq. M. P. in the last parliament for Sudbury, and had issue. He died in Aug. 1799.

Peter-Isaac, the eldest son, was born Oct. 13, 1761; married, June 14, 1783. Eleonor-Elizabeth, third daughter of John Cornwall, of Hendon, in Middlesex, esq. by whom he had issue, 1. Peter-Henry, born April 1, 1784, died August following—2. John, the present peer—3. Frances, born July 6, 1790, died July 7, 1807—4. George, born May 24, 1791—5. Henry, born July 15, 1792, died Oct. 6, 1800—6. Caroline, born Oct. 2, 1793—7. William—8. Frederick, twins, born Jan. 6, 1798—9. Edmund, born July 20, 1799—10. Arthur, born Dec. 19, 1801. His lordship was created a peer, by patent, dated February 1806, and dying, Sept. 15, 1808, by a fall from his horse, was succeeded by his son, the present peer.

Resolved and adjudged, by the lords spiritual and temporal in parliament assembled, that the barony of Zouch, of Harringworth was a barony created by writ in the reign of king Edward the Second, and therefore descendible to heirs general, and that the said barony fell into abeyance upon the death of Edward, the last lord Zouche, between Zouche Tate his grandson, (being the son and heir of Elizabeth, his eldest daughter,) and Mary, wife of William Connald, esq. his second and younger daughter, which said Elizabeth and Mary were the only daughters of the said lord, and that the petitioner, sir Cecil Bishopp, bart. as grandson and heir of Catharine Hedges, who was great grand-daughter, and one of the two co-heirs of the said Zouche Tate, and Jane-Catharine-Sarah-Oliver-Lucy Anne Howell, as grand daughters of Mary Long, and Samuel-George Heming, as son of Mary Charlotte Heming, another grand daughter of the said Mary Long, which said Mary Long was the sister of the said Catharine Hedges, and the other great grand-daughter and co-heir of the said Zouche Tate, are co-heirs of the said said Zouche Tate, who was co-heir of the said Edward, lord Zouche, by Elizabeth, the eldest daughter of the said Edward, lord Zouche, and that the said sir Cecil Bishopp, Jane-Catharine-Sarah-Oliver-Lucy-Anne Howell, and Samuel-George Heming, are the co-heirs of the said last lord Zouche, together with the heir or heirs of the body of the said Mary, the younger daughter of the said last lord Zouche, if the said Mary hath any heir or heirs of her body now in existence, and if she hath none, such are the sole co-heirs of the said last lord Zouche, and that the said barony is in abeyance amongst the said co heirs, and consequently at his majesty's disposal, the said resolution and judgment was ordered to be laid before his majesty, by the lords with white staves.

The House of Lords having decided as above, that the barony of Zouche is in abeyance between sir Cecil Bishopp, bart. and the three daughters of the late Robert Long, esq. it is presumed, that his Majesty will shortly be induced to terminate the abeyance, as in every similar instance, during the present reign, the grace of the crown has immediately followed the favourable report of the House of Lords; the case of the barony of Beaumont not forming a regular exception, as that turned on a particular point of law.

THE MOST NOBLE ORDER OF THE GARTER.

This Order was instituted by Edward III. January 19,

The habit and ensigns of the Order, are a surcoat, garter, mantle, hood, gorge, collar, cap, and feathers; the four first were assigned by the founder Edward III. the others by Henry VIII. The motto on the garter and star is, HONI SOIT QUI MAL Y PENSE. The garter is of blue velvet, bordered with gold. The gorge is the figure of St. George on horseback, in armour, encountering a dragon with a tilting spear; the whole of gold enamelled, and may be enriched with jewels, at the pleasure of the possessor; it is worn across the right shoulder, pendant to a dark or garter-blue ribbon. The collar is of gold, weighing thirty ounces troy weight, and contains twenty-six garters, enamelled proper, in each a rose, gules, and as many knots, enamelled white, to which is pendant the gorge, as above. Charles II. ordained that the Knights should always, in public, wear, embroidered on the left side of their coats or cloaks, the cross of St. George, surrounded with the garter, with rays of silver, forming a star of eight points.

At a chapter, held June 3, 1786, a new statute was ordained, that in future the Order should consist of the Sovereign and twenty-five Knights, exclusive of the sons of his Majesty, or his successors, who have been or shall be elected Knights of the same Most Noble Order.

THE MOST ANCIENT ORDER OF THE THISTLE.

THIS Order was founded by king James V. 1540, revived by king James II. in 1687, and re-established by queen Anne, December 31, 1703.—In 1714, king George I. confirmed the statutes of queen Anne, and several others, particularly that of making rays of glory to surround the figure of St. Andrew, which is suspended to the collar, and his majesty was pleased to order, that in future, chapters of election should be held in the royal presence; the Order to consist of the sovereign and twelve brethren or knights, making in the whole thirteen, and four officers.

The star is worn on the left side of the coat or cloak, and consists of a St. Andrew's cross of silver embroidery, with rays going out betwixt the points of the cross; on the middle thereof a thistle of gold and green upon a field of green, and round the thistle and field a circle of gold, having on it the following motto of the Order, in letters of green: NEMO ME IMPUNE LACESSIT (No one provokes me with impunity.) The badge or jewel is worn worn pendant to a green ribband over the left shoulder, and tied under the arm; it consists of the image of St. Andrew, with the cross before, enamelled and chased on rays of gold, the cross and feet resting upon a ground of enamelled green; and on the back, enamelled on a green ground, a thistle gold and green, the flower red, with the before-mentioned motto round it. The collar consists of thistles and sprigs of rue going betwixt, and at the middle thereof shall be hung before the image of St. Andrew, as above; the whole of gold enamelled.

N. B. There being no installation of this Order, the Knight wears the collar and star immediately after his investiture.
